EDM: ACTS & FACTS

It was a little difficult to get a place for ConFact because this is really (ful)filled convention. But the more fans the better. And now we await all the serious remarks which people are able to say about an event like this.

rentawitch:

I am writing on a machine which is old but only about half as old as me!

Mad Elf:

Everything is going very well from what I can see. A most excellent Eastercon!

Matthew:

Friday is done. Now the fans awake Mancunicon to saturday's life...

Gareth:

Good morning Eastercon, i hope that you are having a great time. Have you considered visiting Barcelona in November. It will be great fun!

Hans-Ulrich:

It's saturday morning, and I have a very good time at the Eastercon. The science programme is very strong this year, with a panel on gravity waves, a talk on space science given by David Clements (a scientist involved with ESA's Herschel space mission), and another panel with five scientists from Jodrell Bank.

Free Tea for gophas

Pebble:

Hello EasterCon. I hope you are all having at least as much fun as I am. Met many old friends and made many new ones that I'm sure will last a life time. I'm wearing my brand new shiny scalle maille and everyone keeps wanting to stroke me. It's awesome. I hope to see many of you at TitanCon this September/October.

Rentawitch: Eastercon - Day 3 of my Captivity - Place full of wierdos!

Alex Greene:

I have been attending conventions since 1985, mostly specialised science fiction cons devoted to shows like Star Trek and Doctor Who. This is my second Eastercon.

I love the atmosphere at conventions, and the panels give me much to think about as a writer. Conventions are a prolific source of inspiration and catalyst for creativity.

Matthew:

It's sunday morning after a short night. Have fun!

Arthur Chappell:

Great con, (in my home city too) terrific events especially the writerpcritique events and having the best real ale bar of just about anzy con ever

Dave the "Boggis":

OK this is one of the best cons ive been to for a while vibrant and so busy just buzzin and fizzing Onwards Onwards!!!
