EDM: SPOOKS & HOOKS

Is there a chance to get a complete CF today? We have many interesting reactions and if fans will write soon, we'll get a second page of this ex, too.

Martin Stricker:

So I'm back at another EuroCon - my third. There were great panels about Science Fiction from many countries in Europe, plus in Catalan language, which of course was especially interesting because I wasn't aware any SF in Catalan existed - and now I own some translated works! I also met several friends from other conventions again, and the guys and gals from SFera in Zagreb, Croatia, where I had a lot of fun for 2 years. I also made new acquaintances, and we may see some German-language SF translated into French.

I do have once critique about the convention: The time slots should have been aligned - they overlap each other, so instead of just missing the panels in the same time slot, you also miss those that overlap slightly, so I could attend a lot less panels than otherwise would have been possible.

Brigitte:

It's better in Barcelona :-) Martin and I rented an apartment near Arc de Triomf, so we could explore the town in a very special way - home cooking included :-) Since we are in the con zone, sleep is less, but we have a lot of fun and meet many interesting people from all over Europe. Today we enjoy the last day of "Sommer, Sonne, Kaktus", before we get back to cold and rainy brrrr Germany.

Matthew Kunkel:

Last day of BCon has begun.

Last night we had a wonderful dinner at Tallers 76 with tapas. Now we enjoy con again with many friends, talks, and much fun!

The ESFS has a new board. And in two years the European fandom goes to Amiens, France.

Last day of a great convention, though I would have hoped for the big party in the evening. But very interesting panels, especially on European SF! The ESFS-meeting had also been surprisingly productive. Looking forward to the Closing Ceremony!

I had a really wonderful time here at Eurocon/Bcon. There are so many friendly people here and so many things to talk about. We had so much fun promoting our fanzine "Smokopolitan". Hope people like it. Looking forward to the next Eurocon already!

NO NORE FOR TODAY. CLOSING IS TO COME!

GOOD-BYE IN
